THE SOUTH-CAROLINA AND COUNTRY GAZETTE; JOURNAL.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, both Foreign and Domeſtic.

TUESDAY, APRIL 1, 1766.

To the Printer of the South-Carolina Gazette, and Country Journal.

SIR,

IF you have Room, give this Epiſtle to the Publick a Place in your Paper, and you ſhall have more, if the Stamp-Act is not repealed. I am, Sir, your very humble ſervant,

March 13, 1766. PRISTINE FORTITUDE.

To the PUBLICK.

Let the known Story of a Dumb Boy, whoſe Tongue forced a Paſſage for Speech, by the Horror of ſeeing a Dagger at his Father's Throat, remove all wonder that a poor Georgian ſhould cry out, when the Liberty and Wellbeing of his Country are attempted.

WE learn from hiſtory, that human wiſdom cannot frame a government ſo perfect as never to want amendments. That alterations made without a ſkilful attention to firſt principles, only ſerve to haſten a total deſtruction of the original ſyſtem. That theſe maxims were always ſo well underſtood by the people of England, in every ſtruggle between power and liberty, that they never ſuffered any change to prevail, in prejudice of their fundamental right of being taxed by their own repreſentatives, and tried by their peers. That the people of Ireland, through many conflicts, have alſo preſerved theſe eſſential pillars of freedom. And, that theſe privileges are the birth-right of the Engliſh colonies in America, ſtands plainly evinced by ſeveral patriotick writers, and are well claimed by every Commons Houſe of Aſſembly on the Continent, as the inherent right of their Conſtituents. So that unleſs the people of England and Ireland have loſt their diſcernment, and the Colonifts the virtue and ſpirit of their anceſtors, the ſtamp act will hardly be carried into execution.------Who dare ſubmit to a law that, the inſtant it operates, will plunge two millions of ſubjects into abject ſlavery, and eventually the whole nation? Men born Jacobites, and nurſed in rebellion, may yield a traiterous obedience;---but, let the Sons of Liberty follow the glorious example of their illuſtrious fathers, and heaven will favour their ſtruggles:---Let them with unſhaken loyalty to George the Third, and fidelity to poſterity, oppoſe this flagrant miniſterial infraction of Charters, and violation of publick faith.---Let them be true to themſelves and the houſe of Hanover, and all the united cunning of Bute, Grenville and Halifax, aided by tools at home and abroad, will never eſtabliſh their darling ſcheme of tyranny.

But it may be aſked, What can the Americans do in caſe the parliament, deaf to our remonſtrances already ſent, and blind to the impending publick danger, ſhould not repeal the ſtamp-act? fully to anſwer a queſtion that will then be of the utmoſt importance, may now be premature: Yet, I venture to hope, that every colony will ſtand firm at that critical period, and preſerve union among themſelves, until the people at home feel our calamities in their own, and join to heal the wounded conſtitution.

Georgia, though ſuſpected by her ſiſter colonies, will prove worthy her relation to them, and their mother country.---It is true, the penſioned herd abetting and abeted by a Tory Juggler have, by means diſgraceful to magiſtracy, drawn ſome bearing and forbearing gentlemen into a dangerous toleration of ſtamps among the ſhipping; but a general acquieſcence is not ſuſpected. Doubtleſs there are men in every province whoſe zeal ſets as looſe as their coats, and are put on and off, or turned, for conveniency. But what leſs than a total inverſion of all ideas of duty, could induce a G------r to excite or permit his creatures to execute a bond, repugnant to common ſenſe, and the known principles of law? Who would think of finding in G-----a the exploded diſpenſing power of James the IId, aſſumed by the ſervants of the crown? Will their ſuperiors connive at this inſult to majeſty, and blame the people for their conſtitutional oppoſition to the ſtamp-act? But it is not my purpoſe to unfold the weakneſs, corruption or duplicity, of any man or ſet of men in the adminiſtration: I therefore ſhall conclude with a liſt of facts, abſtracted from a club, into which every gentleman may be admitted, but no worming Jacobitical.

February 3, 1766. The G------r being ſeated in the council-chamber, crowded by people of all ranks, and big with a ſtate ſecret, did, after ſeveral introductory hints, writings and contorſions, bring forth and read Mr. Conway's letter; and to his immortal honour made a learned comment on the Secretary's meaning; aſſerted the rectitude of his own conduct; aſſured his auditors that there were villains and rebels amongſt them; that he underſtood law as well as any man; and knew they were all within one ſtep of death: And to having evacuated a crude mixture of law politicks and ſcurrility, concluded with a dreadful menace, unleſs, ſays he, the principals among you, do, in three days, give me proper aſſurances that the people will ſubmit to his majeſty's authority, (meaning the ſtamp-act) I WILL WRITE FOR SHIPS AND TROOPS.

13*th*. Several planters dined with the G------r, who was graciouſly pleaſed to read them a letter from the Secretary of State, and declaim on the virtue of paſſive obedience and non-reſiſtance. He railed, cajoled, and deſired his gueſts to be reconciled, and to reconcile their friends, to the ſtamp-act, but they in their turn deſired to be excuſed. His E------y, at a ſubſequent dinner, did prevail on a Dutch juſtice to undertake to convert the people of Ebenezer, but they proved incorrigible, and his worſhip has ſince been raſtily handled by his countrymen.

20*th*. Veſſels arriving here without ſtamped clearances, are allowed to unload without entering at the cuſtom-houſe; Where can there be found an equal for our G------r, who, with ſo much dexterity, diſpenſes with acts of parliament or enforces them at pleaſure?

25*th*. Mr. Vincent was elected to ſerve in the commons houſe of aſſembly for the town of Savannah; his electors paraded under red colours, on which were the words LIBERTY, LOYALTY, VINCENT, AND NO STAMPS: At night the populace made a bonfire and burnt the Effigy of G------r W------t, with a ſcrips of parchment on his breaſt, and in one hand a ſtamp-act with ſeals pendent.

27*th*. Two conſtables, in a private way, acquainted the commons that the G------r had, in a private way, aſſured them, that the fears of the people were groundleſs, for, that until his majeſty's pleaſure was further known, no other attempts ſhould be made to carry the ſtamp-act into execution, and therefore the aſſembly might ſafely paſs the tax bill.

In the courts of conſcience the juſtices take cogniſance of ſums under eight pounds ſterling, and are allowed to proceed without ſtamps. Some time ago a capias iſſued out of the general court, but it is thought the chief juſtice will not again open that court in favour of any creature, eſpecially, as actions may be brought againſt himſelf and others, for cruel and wanton outrages, committed under colour of authority, on the memorable ſecond of January.

March. The Governor aſſented to the tax bill, delivered the following SPEECH, prorogued the aſſembly to the 8th July, and added, in a private way, his thanks to the commons, for not troubling themſelves about the ſtamp-act, as ſome other colonies had.

Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the Aſſembly,
Honourable Gentlemen,

I HAVE very chearfully concurred with you, and aſſented to every bill you have prepared during this ſeſſion; and doubt not, but the province will receive all thoſe advantages that may be reaſonably expected, from laws ſo prudently calculated and well intended.

But, before we part, let me in the ſtrongeſt manner recommend it to you, to endeavour to rectify and remove the groſs errors, and ill grounded prejudices, which ſome miſguided people have been led into, by men who can neither be friends to their king, their country, or to ſociety: Alſo to promote peace, harmony and good order, amongſt us, which is not only our duty but our intereſt to do. Let us ſhew that decency and ſubmiſſion to our moſt gracious Sovereign and his authority, which he has a right to expect from us, and let us confide in the juſtice of the Mother Country for relief, if we are aggrieved, which will inevitably prove us to be loyal, good and wiſe ſubjects.

Gentlemen,

I think from your knowledge of my conduct and views I have had for upwards of five years that I have been Governor here, you will not conſider what I now ſay as mere words of matter of form or courſe proceeding from an officer of the crown; for although I will, at every hazard, diſcharge my duty to the crown, and the truſt repoſed in me, as I conceive a faithful ſervant and honeſt man ought to do, yet, believe me, I am at this time more particularly actuated to ſay what I have, by a true zeal and regard for the welfare of this province and its inhabitants, who I am moſt anxious to ſave from every kind of inconveniency and diſtreſs.

JAMES WRIGHT.

REMARKS ON THE SPEECH.

Does he mean by the words groſs errors, and ill grounded prejudices, the peoples diſlike to the ſtamp-act and his adminiſtration? Does he mean by miſguided people, thoſe led by the Chief Juſtice on the 2d January, or the expedient mongers? to ſome of theſe only can be applied the words, led by men who can neither be friends to their King, their Country, or to Society. I ſuppoſe he means by the words promote peace, harmony and good order, a decent, tame ſubmiſſion to the ſtamp-act. What knowledge the people have of his conduct and views for upwards of five years, is under the conſideration of another man: I ſhall not break in upon his taſk.

LONDON.

His MAJESTY'S moſt gracious SPEECH to both HOUSES OF PARLIAMENT, on Tueſday the 14th Day of January, 1766.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

WHEN I met you laſt I acquainted you, that matters of importance had happened in America, which would demand the moſt ſerious attention of parliament.

That no information which could ſerve to direct your deliberations in ſo intereſting a concern might be wanting, I have ordered all the papers that give any light into the origin, the progreſs, or the tendency of the diſturbances which have of late prevailed in ſome of the northern colonies, to be immediately laid before you.

No time has been loſt, on the firſt advice of theſe diſturbances, to iſſue orders to the governors of my provinces, and to the commanders of my forces in America, for the exertion of all the powers of government in the ſuppreſſion of riots and tumults, and in the effectual ſupport of lawful authority.

Whatever remains to be done on this occaſion, I commit to your wiſdom; not doubting but your zeal for the honour of my crown, your attention to the JUST rights and authority of the Britiſh legiſlature, and your affection and concern for the welfare and proſperity of all my people, will guide you to ſuch ſound and prudent reſolutions, as may tend at once to preſerve thoſe conſtitutional rights over the colonies, and to reſtore to them that harmony and tranquility, which have lately been interrupted by riots and diſorders of the moſt dangerous nature.

If any alterations ſhould be wanting in the commercial œconomy of the plantations, which may tend to enlarge and ſecure the mutual and beneficial intercourſe of my kingdoms and colonies, they will deſerve your moſt ſerious conſideration. In effectuating purpoſes ſo worthy of your wiſdom and publick ſpirit, you may depend upon my moſt hearty concurrence and ſupport. The preſent happy tranquility, now ſubſiſting in Europe, will enable you to purſue ſuch objects of our interior policy with more uninterrupted attention.

Gentlemen of the Houſe of Commons,

I have ordered the proper eſtimates for the current ſervice of the year to be laid before you. Such ſupplies as you may grant ſhall be duly applied with the utmoſt fidelity, and ſhall be diſpenſed with the ſtricteſt œconomy.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

I earneſtly recommend to you to proceed in your deliberations with temper and unanimity. The time requires, and I doubt not but your own inclination will lead you to thoſe ſalutary diſpoſitions. I have nothing at heart but the aſſertion of legal authority, the preſervation of the liberties of all my ſubjects, the equity and good order of my government, and the concord and proſperity of all parts of my dominions.

The humble ADDRESS of the Right Honourable the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament aſſembled.

Die Martis, 14° Januarii, 1766.

Moſt Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your majeſty's moſt loyal and dutiful ſubjects, the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in parliament aſſembled, beg leave to return you our hearty and moſt unfeigned thanks to your majeſty, for your moſt gracious ſpeech from the throne.

We gratefully acknowledge your majeſty's goodneſs and condeſcenſion, in ordering to be immediately laid before us all the materials of information, which may ſerve to direct our proceedings upon the very important objects which your majeſty has propoſed to our conſideration.

We cannot avoid expreſſing our ſatisfaction in your majeſty's paternal care and vigilance, in loſing no time to iſſue the neceſſary orders, for exerting the ſeveral powers of government in the ſuppreſſion of riots and tumults, and the ſupport of order and legal authority. Concurring heartily with your majeſty's ſalutary intentions, we will exert our utmoſt endeavours to aſſert and ſupport your majeſty's dignity and honour, and the legiſlative authority of this kingdom over its colonies; and will take into conſideration the moſt proper methods to provide for the reſtoration of the tranquility of thoſe colonies, which has been diſturbed by ſuch violent and dangerous commotions.

We congratulate your majeſty, that the ſtate of tranquility, ſo happily ſubſiſting in Europe, leaves us at leiſure to attend to the mutual commercial concerns of your kingdoms and colonies.

Permit us, Sir, to condole with you on the loſs your majeſty and your royal family has ſuſtained, by the premature death of his royal highneſs prince Frederick William; whoſe amiable qualities, and early attainments, afforded ſo pleaſing a proſpect of happineſs to your majeſty, and of advantage to your kingdoms.

Our deliberations will, we truſt, be conducted with that prudence and temper which your majeſty ſo graciouſly recommends. You will find, Sir, that our ſentiments correſpond with your majeſty's gracious intentions towards ALL your ſubjects; and that all things which may tend to re-eſtabliſh tranquility and order, and to cement the ſeveral parts of the Britiſh dominions in a cloſe connexion and CONSTITUTIONAL dependance, ſhall be the firſt objects of our attention; that ſuch a firm authority may be eſtabliſhed, and ſuch a GENERAL ſatisfaction diffuſed over every part of your extenſive empire, as ought to diſtinguiſh the government of ſo wiſe, ſo juſt, and ſo beneficent a prince.

His MAJESTY'S moſt gracious ANSWER.

My Lords,

I Thank you for this dutiful and loyal addreſs. Your firm and temperate reſolution to ſupport the dignity of my crown, and the legiſlative authority of this kingdom over its colonies; your care, at the ſame time, to re-eſtabliſh order and tranquility in thoſe colonies; and your regard to the proſperity and happineſs of all my people, ſhew diſpoſitions which are altogether worthy of your wiſdom, and which cannot fail of producing the moſt ſalutary effects both at home and abroad. You will find me unalterably fixed in the ſame intentions. Your affectionate condolance on the death of my brother, affords me ſome conſolation on that melancholy occaſion.

Yet, young as I am, the continual party feuds which distract this unhappy country, embitter my last moments, because I am morally certain, that one time or other they must prove the destruction of the kingdom."

Yesterday dispatches were received from his excellency governor Murray, at Quebeck; which province, it is said, is now in a state of tranquility.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Philadelphia, to his friend in London.

"We are informed that many persons at home affect to speak of the colonists, as of a people designing and endeavouring to render themselves independent, and therefore it may be said to be proper as much as possible to depress them. This method for securing obedience, has been tried by many powerful nations, and seems to be the constant policy of commonwealths: But the attempt in almost every instance from Athens down to Genoa, has been unsuccessful. Many states and kingdoms have lost their dominions by severity and an unjust jealousy. I remember none that have been lost by kindness and a generous confidence. Evils are frequently precipitated by imprudent attempts to prevent them. In short, we never can be made an independent people, except it be by Great-Britain herself; and the only way for her to do it, is to make us frugal, ingenious, united and discontented.

"But if this event shall ever happen, which Providence I hope will never permit, it must be when the present generation and the present set of sentiments are extinct. Late measures have indeed excited an universal and unexampled grief and indignation throughout the colonies. What man who wishes the welfare of America, can view without pity, without passion, her restricted and almost stagnated trade, with its numerous train of evils---Taxes torn from her without her consent---Her legislative assemblies, the principal pillars of her liberty, crushed into insignificance---A formidable force established in the midst of peace, to bleed her into obedience ---The sacred right of trial by jury, violated by the erection of arbitrary and unconstitutional jurisdictions---and general poverty, discontent and despondence, stretching themselves over his unoffending country?

"The reflexions of the colonists on these melancholy subjects, are not a little embittered by a firm persuasion, that they never would have been treated as they are, if Canada still continued in the hands of the French. Thus, their hearts glowing with every sentiment of duty and affection to their mother country, and expecting, not unreasonably perhaps, some marks of tenderness in return, are pierced by a fatal discovery, that the vigorous assistance which they faithfully afforded her in extending her dominions, has only proved the glorious but destructive cause of the calamities they now deplore and resent.

"Yet still their resentment is but the resentment of dutiful children, who have received unmerited blows from a beloved parent. Their obedience to great-Britain is secured by the best and strongest ties, those of affection; which alone can, and I hope will, form an everlasting union between her and her colonies. May no successes or suspicions ever tempt her to deviate from the natural generosity of her spirit---And may no dreadful revolution of sentiments, ever teach them, to fear her victories or to repine at her glories."

It is reported, but we pretend not to say how far it may be deserving of credit, that the king of Prussia has concluded a peace of fifty years with the Emperor, and that they are to join both in retaking Alsace and Loraine from the French, and that his Prussian majesty is to be gratified with the perpetual cession of all Silesia.

The ships now rigging at Portsmouth, are intended to relieve the squadrons in the Mediterranean and elsewhere.

On saturday night the remains of his late Royal Highness Prince FREDERICK-WILLIAM, were interred in K. Henry the VIII's chapel, in Westminster-Abbey. The procession began about ten o'clock from the prince's chamber, adjoining to the house of peers, over a platform across Old Palace-Yard, to the south-east door of Westminster-Abbey. The ceremony was the same as at the interment of his late Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland. The Manufacturers in England begin already greatly to feel the effects of the American resolutions not to import any goods from England, several shipwrights, caulkers, and every other branch in the shipping, down the River, not having employment even for their apprentices; and we are told that one considerable Stocking Manufacturer near the city has discharged no less than forty workmen within these few days.

Jan. 11. A Nobleman of the first Quality, it is said, has been within these few days informed, that his presence is no longer necessary at a particular board.

It is said an additional bounty per ton will be granted this session on shipping employed in the Greenland Whale-Fishery, the better to encourage this lucrative branch of commerce, and that the same will be extended to vessels fitted out from North-America.

We hear that if there should be any alteration in the duties on Tobacco, that the makers and traders in Snuff will be brought under the Laws of Excise, and that part of the old subsidy on Tobacco shall not be drawn back on exportation.

Some of the ships of war now fitting out at Portsmouth and Plymouth, are intended to occupy the station of Pensacola in West-Florida; and, we hear, it is determined to have always a small cruizing squadron for the protection of trade in the Gulph of Mexico.

They write from Brest, that the French now boast of having rendered the Island of Goree, on the Coast of Africa, impregnable to any future attack of an enemy.

The greatest Contest concerning the American Stamp-Act, we are assured, is already compromised to the Satisfaction of all Parties. The Stamp-Act, it is said, will be repealed, and the Supplies are to be raised by a Taxation to be imposed by the American Assemblies themselves, in whatever way shall be found most agreeable to themselves.

The Friends of the new Ministry are so sanguine in the uprightness of their intentions for the public Good, as to say that the Land-Tax, for the current year, will certainly be fixed at Three Shillings in the pound.

Several ships of war, it is said, will soon sail for the Bay of Biscay, in consequence of some recent advices received from Lisbon.

Some spirited instructions, we are informed have been sent this week, by the Gentlemen, &c. of the county of Worcester, to their Representatives in Parliament, recommending to them, in the strongest Terms, to use their utmost Endeavour to obtain a Repeal of the Cyder-Act, this Session of Parliament.

'Tis said a certain Great Man in the Law has told a great Personage that Mr. ------'s Speech has done his Country more Harm than any Thing that has happened for Ages past.

We hear that an eminent Lawyer has delivered it as his Opinion, that a great Patriot, who spoke against the American Stamp Duty ought to be sent to the Tower.

We are told that a certain celebrated Speech on a late Act is now printing in great Numbers in order to be transmitted to the Westward.

Mr. PRINTER,

BY the latest Accounts by Capt. Brownett, from Bristol, there is the greatest Reason to think that the Cyder-Act will be repealed, and all Restrictions taken off the Trade of the Northern Colonies. This is very welcome News indeed, and we wish may prove true: But we hope the first is not thrown out merely as a temporary Expedient, to calm the Minds of our English Brethren for the present, lest the secret Movers of the hellish political Machinery at Home should have too much on their Hands at once; and that the other is not artfully intended TO DOUCEUR the North-Americans into a tame Reception of the St---p-Act, and a Courtier-like Surrender of their Liberties by Way of grateful Return.---We by no Means think the Trading People in our North-American Towns, (though great Numbers of them are only transient Persons) such Knaves, as for any private Advantages whatever (much less for such as when the present Turn is served, they may be instantly and deservedly deprived of again) to endeavour to betray their Country Friends and others into a Submission to that enslaving unconstitutional Act; nor if they were, do we think the North-American Farmers and Planters such silly Fools as to follow their Advice.---No, not here, however it may be industriously whispered or thought in Town, by any zealous place-gaping Charly-whistling B---ans amongst us; "that there is no doubt but the Country with us," like G------a (that mildew'd Ear blasting its wholesome Brother) "will agree to whatever the Town does." -----Thank GOD these Pulse-feeling Tamperers and smooth Insinuaters are thinly scattered there, and may they ever be so! Besides, when one Tax is admitted, how easily may others be laid on in Proportion to any Openings of Trade whatever, sufficient to drain us of all our Specie, and to entail as many hungry Time-serving Place-Men upon us, as necessary Ministerial Spies, as the Rock-blooming North can supply us with, and which we may never after be able to get rid of. I am, Your's, &c. H. F.

CHARLES-TOWN, APRIL 1.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Bristol to his friend in this town, dated February 1, 1766.

"I AM very fearful, notwithstanding the great and general struggle in America, they will not obtain their ends; for although the meeting of p---------t was the 14th ult. for dispatch of business, against which time petitions and instructions to the members were sent from almost every trading city and manufacturing town, there was nothing decisive then passed, it being put off to the 28th, and then to the 31st, the result of which is expected in a day or two.

"The English Cicero, Mr. PITT, on the 14th, spoke, at different times, three hours, when he gave it, as his opinion, that the act was impolitic, unjust, and illegal; and that it ought to be repealed: the famous Lord Camden, it is said, is of the same opinion. But, on the other hand, G--nv--le has exerted himself greatly, seconded by N-g-nt, with the gentlemen of the landed interest, insinuating that a continuance of the stamp-act will lessen the land tax, by which means, it is said, he has gained over many; so that it is thought by most people, that it will not be repealed, though, I must confess, I am not of that opinion, but perhaps interest and hearty wishes may make me partial: however, it is the general sentiments, that if it should be repealed by the commons, that the lords will reject it, as it will give up all right of p---------t over the colonists. The expectations of people have been thus kept in suspense for a long time, and every one judges as interest or opinion affects them. This city has sent up two petitions to parliament, one from the merchants, and the other from the city, set on foot by a few gentlemen trading to America: they also drew up spirited instructions to their members to solicit a repeal of the stamp-act. Hitherto little or no bad effects have been felt from the stoppage of the American trade, but should it continue for a short space longer, the consequences must become very alarming, as the stagnation of the manufacturies throughout the kingdom, will leave thousands destitute of subsistence, who generally eat their bread, day by day, as they earn it---And the greatest American factors will find it difficult to answer the demands, should three or four millions be withheld, which, it is computed, is due from America; the natural consequences of which is very easily conceived, and the effects of it must be generally felt throughout the kingdom."

Extract of another letter from Bristol, dated Feb. 3.

"What engrosses all our attention is the fate of the stamp-act. We have been now, day by day, for six days past, expecting its final doom from the house of commons, where their debates have been warm. This day's post brings an account of the ministry's having waited upon the king, and thrown up their several employs, which will embarrass and much procrastinate the decision of this interesting affair. So soon as any thing positive is known, we shall advise you. As to the opinion of the commons, it is said one day they will repeal the bill, the next day letters are of quite a contrary tenor, so that even here the event is very dubious, but all seem to fear the lords will throw out the bill, should it pass the commons."

Extract of a Letter from a House in St. Christopher's to a Sc---h House in Georgia, handed about with indefatigable Industry on Tuesday the 18th Ultimo, by an eager Sc---h Buyer-up of Rice, for his charter'd Vessels at Georgia, to the great Prejudice of many Persons in this Town-----and trading to it.----

BASSE-TERRE, 13*th February.* "The Want of Stamp Papers did not for a Time prevent the Course of Business at our different Offices; but as we have late Accounts from Britain that the Ministry are determined to inforce the Act in the Colonies, and have ACTUALLY GIVEN ORDERS to the Men of War on the different Stations to make Prizes of all Vessels they meet with without the proper Papers, and send them to the MOST DISTANT PORTS for Trial. The People in Trade here have dropt all Thoughts of sending their Vessels to any Part of the Continent until they can be supplied with the necessary Paper, which we hope will be soon, although too late to make an Adventure your Way with any View of Advantage."

Extract of a Letter from the same Place to a Gentleman in this Town, dated 27th February.

"By a late Account from England, there is Reason to think the Execution of the Stamp-Act will soon be suspended for a Time." Which of these Accounts are most agreeable to Fact, and His Majesty's most Gracious Intentions signified in his Speech to Parliament?

On Thursday last the Sloop American, Wanton Stover, Master, arrived here from Jamaica, who informs us, That the Stamps which had been put upon the News-Papers published in that Island since the Act took Place there, were lately taken off; and that it was the general Opinion of the People, that the Act would be repealed.

Capt. Stover confirms the Account published in our last under the London Head, of the Count de Estaing, Governor of the French Part of Hispaniola, being obliged to make his Escape to the Havana.

A Schooner belonging to some Part of this Province, which was blown off the Coast this Winter, with two white Men and two Negroes on board, and was supposed to be lost, is safe arrived at Jamaica; but in so shattered a Condition, that the Captain was obliged to dispose of her.

There is near 6000 acres of land joining on each side the river, as good yellow pine as any in the province, with an established ferry belonging to the mills, being a good place for a store. A large stock of neat cattle, a quantity of hogs, horses, a waggon, a new schooner that carries 130 barrels rice, and draws not more than six feet water; with every other convenience to carry on the said business to advantage. ---- N. B. The purchaser of the above said share of the mills, must put 12 negroes on the place, which number I have to dispose of, if he like them, and we can agree.
